DON PERLIN

1929 - 2024

Marvel pauses to remember longtime penciler, inker and former managing art director Don Perlin, who co-created Moon Knight and was a mainstay on series such as Defenders, Ghost Rider and Werewolf by Night. Born Aug. 27, 1929, in New York City, Perlin studied under Burne Hogarth and attended the Cartoonists and Illustrators School. He began professional work in the late 1940s and would work with Will Eisner on The Spirit comics before being drafted in 1952. Perlin wouldn't come back to comics full-time until the 1970s, when Marvel Editor in Chief Roy Thomas recruited him to draw Werewolf by Night. In that series, he co-created the vigilante hero Moon Knight with writer Doug Moench. He also co-created Tigra with Tony Isabella and was the longest-running penciler on the Defenders series. In the 1980s, he became Marvel's managing art director, working under John Romita Sr. and, among other things, helping oversee the up-and-coming artists in the Romita's Raiders program. He moved on in the 1990s to Acclaim and Valiant comics, where he co-created some of their most important characters. Perlin was well-liked in the comics field and respected for decades of great work. Our hearts go out to his family and all those who knew and loved him.

Healing factor. Enhanced senses. Deadly-sharp claws. The mutant once known as X-23 was bred to be the perfect killer. But she's left that life behind, forging her own path alongside her mutant comrades—and family—as a force for good in an unkind world.

Upstate New York.

She's gone.

Not possible.

She has to be here—

WHAM

What?

I didn't just think a hospital overrun by vampires would be a fun place to spend an afternoon.

I came here for a reason.

Ever since the vamps blotted out the sun, people have been going missing... people around my age who might have powers.

I tracked a couple of them to this location and found...

Blood. Lots of blood.

I guess when they couldn't get ahold of super hero blood, they settled for mutant...

...hoping that by consuming mutant blood, they might gain some additional powers...

...you know, beyond the whole bloodsucking thing.

Which, I would argue, is not actually a power, because I don't think you need to be a vampire to suck blood...just creepy.

Vampires with mutant abilities?

Sabbot...did they consume your blood? That would mean they would gain your healing abilities...

I...I'm not sure. But the reason I can't leave...

"Is because the vampires have another mutant trapped in here."

"I can't smell anything, there are no other living people in the hospital."

"Are you sure this mutant is still...?"

"I'm sure."

"And you won't tell us who we're looking for?"

"Oh, you don't know him, I think he's from somewhere in Europe."

"This would go faster if you started opening some doors."

"Gobby, no one's just go through a vampire-infested hospital opening every door."

"Wait, did you hear that?"

"No, I didn't hear."

It's the Sun of Power!

Haru!

Hrsssss!

I already killed that vampire. How could it...

Your blood, baby.

That vampire was given a dose of your blood.

How are we supposed to kill it?

We could try chopping it into little pieces and burying those pieces in all different places.

Shut the hell up, you're the idea.
